

HERE'S ONE FOR THE GALS THESE FIT FELLOWS FREE THEMSELVES OF CLOTHES

By Hilary L. Green

After the evening shows have concluded, the Riviera's Le Bistro Theatre turns into the red hot Syn City nightclub. Recently, a bunch of buff guys have been hanging out at the nightclub—chatting with girls and flexing their muscles on the dance floor. These are not ordinary guys, although, they are clean-cut, boy-next-door types that you would see on a college campus. These special fellows are the beefcakes who star in the sexy show AMERICAN STORM (Riviera, 702-794-9433), and they have just moved their show downstairs to the Le Bistro Theatre.

American Storm is the brainchild of Billy Cross, whose Thunder From Down Under creation elevated male 'strip' shows to the level of headline entertainment.

"Le Bistro Theatre, with its intimate surroundings and lounge seating, lends to a more up-close and personal experience for the audience," Cross said. "American Storm is not just a production, but a party zone for the ladies to hang out after the show to meet the guys and socialize."

It's a slightly tweaked version of the previous production in which the delicious host, Josh Hall, is now featured in a solo number that is bound to increase some heart rates. Some of the other numbers have been rechoreographed, too, but the show's essence remains the same—a festive frolic that sees fabulous, fit fellows free themselves of most of their clothes in a fun way!
